This is an imitational activity and you might need a teacher to help explain what to do - Primates are very social creatures and are always learning new skills. Our Capuchins are the best example we have of this, carrying out lots of activities which we will recognise. However they also watch us and copy some of the things we do... Try some of these actions and watch if they copy you:

When they catch your eye try moving your eye brows up and down.

Bob your whole body up and down while keeping your head looking forwards.

Tilt your head to the side while looking straight forwards.
